AMBITIOUS VISION FOR WHITE HART LANE AREA

Up to 1,650 homes could be built and 600 jobs created

THE first images have been revealed for how the area around White Hart Lane station and Tottenham Hotspur's football ground could look in the future.

The artist's impressions show a vibrant paved and tree-lined public space that will provide direct access from the railway station to the Premier League club's stadium.

They form part of a public consultation about proposals for north-west Tottenham which were launched last week.

There are three proposals being put forward for developing the area around High Road West, covering an area between Coombes Croft Library and the former Cannon Rubber factory site close to the junction with the western side of Brantwood Road.

The most ambitious would see up to 1,650 new homes built in the area over the next 15 years, providing as many as 600 jobs.

Also included are plans for a new community and sports centre, a cinema or bowling alley and facilities for start-up businesses.

Meanwhile, council tenants on the Love Lane Estate would get bigger and more energy-efficient homes with gardens or private courtyards.

The plans are linked to the £430million development of the White Hart Lane football ground, which would see the main entrance moved to the south and facilities improved for as many as 56,000 fans visiting the area on match days.

Councillor Alan Strickland, cabinet member for regeneration, said: "Improving north Tottenham has long been a priority for the council.

"The £430million Spurs stadium project offers us a once-in-a-generation opportunity to kick-start the improvements that local residents have told us they want to see to the neighbourhood west of Tottenham High Road.

Artist's impression: How the area around White Hart Lane railway station could look

"We have been talking to residents and businesses for the last year about the better homes, new jobs and improved community facilities they want to see in the area and we want to make their ambitions a reality by bringing major investment and change to the area.

"It's really important that people who live and work in the area have their say so together we can build a neighbourhood fit for the future."

The consultation runs until June 21 and you can view more details and comment online at www.haringey.gov.uk/index/housing_and_planning/rebuildingtottenham/highroadwest.htm or at a number of consultation sessions being held for Love Lane residents, local businesses and the wider community between today and June 1.

Nightclub is forced to close after its licence is revoked

A NIGHTCLUB has been forced to close after losing its licence following a review into violent disorder associated with the club and its customers.

Cucci Club, in The Broadway, Wood Green, had its licence suspended last month following two incidents over the Easter weekend.

And following a review by Haringey Council's licensing committee last week, it has now had to shut its doors to the public.

Police were called to Cucci Club in the early hours of March 30 following reports of a serious disturbance outside the venue. Arrests were made.

Then, 24 hours later, there was a serious assault inside the venue.

The violence involving clubbers and Cucci's security staff was captured on CCTV.

The club was already subject to additional conditions agreed with the police following previous incidents of disorder involving grievous bodily harm.

Councillor Nilgun Canver, cabinet member for environment, said: "The violence was clearly seen on the CCTV footage and involved club employees as well as customers exiting the club.

"The licence was already subject to very stringent conditions that were clearly not being followed and revocation of the licence was the only sensible answer."

Another nightclub will be closed for three months after police raised concerns that it was breaching its licensing conditions and becoming a magnet for crime and disorder.

The Edge, in Bruce Grove, Tottenham, had its licence suspended for three months from the end of April following a review by the council.

A new supervisor is now due to take over the club while additional conditions have been added to the licence.

OAP charged with drug smuggling

AN 82-YEAR-OLD is one of two men from Tottenham charged with attempting to smuggle cocaine worth £200,000 into the UK.

Donald Garwood, of Circular Road, and Calvin Campbell, 62, of Gloucester Road, were arrested by UK Border Force officers at Gatwick airport's south terminal on Thursday morning after arriving from Montego Bay, Jamaica.

They are suspected of trying to smuggle around 2kg of the class A drug into the UK, with a potential street value of £200,000.

The two men appeared at Uxbridge magistrates' court on Friday charged with attempting to import a class A drug and were remanded in Customs' detention.

They are due back in court on Friday.

Border Force South Region deputy director David Holt said: "Border Force officers at Gatwick are on constant alert to prevent illegal drugs and other contraband reaching the UK.

"Drug trafficking is a serious offence and those convicted face long prison sentences," he added.

Perfect pooches get their reward

DOGS with behaviour problems and their owners were rewarded after taking part in a six-week training course.

The free scheme was the result of a partnership between Enfield Council, the Friends of Bush Hill Park and park security team Parkguard.

Simon Woodward, the council's dog education and enforcement officer, led the course and Chris Bond, cabinet member for the environment, handed out the awards on the final day.

The initiative was aimed at making dog owners aware of the importance of a well-trained pet, especially when taking them for walks in public parks.

Sarah Clark, who owns two-year-old German Shepherd Sacha, said she was "very impressed" at how the course was run and by the improvement shown by her dog.

"Before the course Sacha was quite boisterous," said Sarah, of Bush Hill Park. "She got very excited around other dogs. There's still a lot of work to go, but it's down to me now."

"At least I know what to do now to correct her behaviour."

Maria Tolly, chairwoman of the Friends of Bush Hill Park and the organiser of the initiative, said: "We were delighted to get involved with this scheme as one of the main concerns that many people have in parks is out-of-control dogs."

"I hope that the course will make an enormous difference to people's perceptions of dogs."

Another course is taking place on Saturday afternoons in Bush Hill Park. It finishes on May 25 when Andy Love, MP for Edmonton, will present awards to successful owners and their dogs.

£3.5m youth centre opens

By Jacob Mignano

news.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

TEENAGERS from across Edmonton now have the chance to take part in a range of art, media and sporting activities after the stunning £3.5million Craig Park youth centre opened last night.

The Unity Hub at Craig Park, in Lawrence Road, Edmonton, has been designed by youth club members and offers a range of activities, including music, art, dance, cooking and sport.

And Exposure, an award-winning media youth group, is leading a programme that will give teenagers the chance to develop graphic skills using the latest equipment and software and to learn from experienced professionals.

The centre has been redeveloped with money from the government's My Place

Up and running: The Unity Hub at Craig Park

fund, which was awarded to Enfield Council in 2009.

Bambos Charalambous, cabinet member for culture, leisure and youth, said: "I am so proud of the young people who have worked so hard to develop this centre. They have planned not only a world-class youth facility, but also a place for the local community."

According to the council, the youth centre will give young people a chance to enhance career prospects, with experienced team leaders on hand and specialist courses available.

It will also give young people a creative outlet, allowing them to make videos and music, choreograph dance routines and write and perform plays.

"By investing in Exposure we are expanding opportunities for young people," added Mr Charalambous. "An appealing programme will attract young people to learn more. It's a real mix of learning and fun in a great environment."

"Unity Hub at Craig Park is a centre that will establish friendship and ambition among young people and bring renewed hope and vigour to the area."

Exposure's learning programme starts this week and sessions run from 3.30pm to 9.30pm every Tuesday and Thursday. For more information, call 020 8883 0260 or email fran@exposure.org.uk

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

Jumping for joy

Olympic course designer saddles up at Trent Park riding centre

By Jacob Mignano

news.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

RIDERS at Trent Park Equestrian Centre were given a masterclass last week by one of the behind-the-scenes stars of last year's Olympic Games.

Sue Benson, who designed the cross-country course for London 2012, taught pupils the art of cross-country jumping, and riders were able to experience first hand her passion for, and knowledge of, the sport.

The event at the centre in Bramley Road, Oakwood, last Wednesday was part of an initiative by the British Equestrian Foundation to encourage more people to take up riding.

Sue, an international event rider for 24 years, told the Advertiser about the immense challenges of designing the Olympic course and her desire for the 2012 legacy to encourage more people to take up riding.

"As my career started to tail off, I wanted to do something different with my life, but stay in the sport," she said. "Designing seemed to come naturally to me."

"The Olympics just came at the right time and I think they felt I was the right person for the job. I was very apprehensive, but I took it."

Sue said that designing the course was an enormous responsibility.

"I realised that instead of just having the equestrian media watching, the whole world was going to be watching," she explained.

"It was very important that the sport was seen in a good light and therefore that I designed something that made people think, 'Well, this is a great sport, let's watch more'."

"At the end of the day there's always an element of luck as to whether you achieve that or not."

Luck or no luck, Sue certainly achieved her goal.

"For me it was a success, but much more important is what the rest of the world thought – and the feedback that the sport got in general was fantastic," she said.

The greater proof, perhaps, is in the way that the profile of horse-riding has been raised by the Olympics. The legacy of London 2012 and Team GB's success is what has led to events like these being organised.

"What I'm doing is just a tiny little bit," said Sue. "I'm trying to get people who already have an interest to realise that they can achieve more than they think they can, that they can put themselves outside their comfort zone a little bit and thoroughly enjoy it and progress."

Just from catching the end of her first session, it is easy to see how difficult riding is.

The interview was delayed by 20 minutes when the session overran because, as Sue says: "You must always end with everyone on a good note. Sometimes you can't end on time."

"It's not like skiing where you can ski down a slope on day two. Once you've learnt to stop, you can ski really – but that's not the case with riding!"

According to Sue, the BEF has been very proactive in trying to get more people into the sport and Trent Park, run by general manager Maria Johnson, has been one of the pilot centres for the BEF for a long time.

It has grown significantly over the past 35 years and now has 100 horses in the riding school, plus four arenas – two indoors and two outdoors – and a cross-country course.

"We're trying to think of all different ways to entice people to ride," said Martine Dawlings, administrator at the centre.

"The government is putting in a lot of money via Sport England. They want people to take part in sport because it's one way of keeping people healthy."

"People don't realise how physical riding is. You are using muscles that you have never used before. You really have to work quite hard at it."

Sue hopes that the Olympic legacy will encourage more people to take up riding and is running these sessions for free because she felt that it was such a privilege to be involved in the Olympics.

"So many people think it's way out of their circle and I thought 'No it isn't, everyone can aspire to something'," she added.

"When I was a kid, I didn't aspire to designing a cross-country course at the Olympics, but I achieved it and just want to try to inspire another generation."

Defendant's street slang leaves the judge and barristers scratching their heads over meaning

LAWYERS and judges struggled to understand the slang used by one of the teenagers accused of stabbing Negus McClean during a lengthy cross-examination at the Old Bailey last week.

Giving evidence from the witness box on Wednesday and Thursday, Brandon Hamilton, 18, of Broad Oak Avenue, Enfield Lock, was forced to repeat himself as Judge John Bevan and barristers frequently failed to get to grips with the teenager's language.

Speaking so quietly that he was repeatedly told by his own barrister to speak up so the jury could hear what he was saying, Hamilton gave evidence dressed in jeans and a T-shirt.

On several occasions the judge had to ask Hamilton to repeat himself so he could be clear about some aspects of gang and street culture.

Responding to questions from the judge and from his own counsel with muttered monosyllables, he replied "nah" and "yeah".

The questioning of Hamilton had to be interrupted frequently as the judge and barristers consulted on the exact meaning of the defendant's responses which were muttered and spoken in an accent they found difficult to understand.

At the end of giving evidence last Wednesday, Hamilton was told by the judge he was expected back at ten o'clock the next morning to which he responded with a muttered and almost inaudible "sho nuff" – street slang for sure enough.

Bilal Lariba, 18, of Mayall Close, Enfield Lock, Tershan Dos Santos Edwards, 19, of St Albans in Hertfordshire, and a 16-year-old teenager, who cannot be named for legal reasons, are all accused of murdering Negus alongside Hamilton.

A 17-year-old girl who cannot be named for legal reasons is standing trial accused of perverting the course of justice.

They all deny the charges and the trial continues.

Teen joined gang for protection but embraced culture, Old Bailey hears

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A TEENAGER accused of murdering 15-year-old Negus McClean told a court he joined an Enfield gang for protection.

Brandon Hamilton, 18, of Broadoak Avenue, Enfield Lock, is standing trial at the Old Bailey charged with the murder of 15-year-old Negus, who bled to death after being stabbed in Westminster Road, Edmonton, on April 10 2011.

The prosecution says Hamilton was one of seven hooded youths who chased Negus through Edmonton on the afternoon of his death.

And it claims that a member of the Dem Africans gang was attacked by members of the Get Money Gang in revenge for an earlier attack. Hamilton admits he joined the Enfield Lock-based GMG gang.

But under cross-examination from prosecution counsel Simon Denison on Thursday he said that he only did so for protection.

"I was having problems with Edmonton people," Hamilton told the court.

"I had a fight with a group of boys from Edmonton, from the DA, when I was in school.

"They took my jacket – I had to avoid certain people in Edmonton."

But the 18-year-old said that as far as he was concerned, the GMG "was just a group of friends from Enfield".

"They were just normal teenagers," he said. "Everyone had a negative view of the GMG but they were just normal kids."

Asked by Mr Denison what the GMG did, Hamilton replied: "They had fights with people from Edmonton."

Mr Denison asked: "Was that their whole purpose?" "No," replied Hamilton, before telling the court that the gang made money from selling cannabis.

After detailing a litany of tit-for-tat stabbings between Dem Africans and the Get Money Gang, Mr Denison asked Hamilton: "This is the culture and environment that you chose to join?"

"Yes," replied Hamilton.

"I wanted to be cool with people in my area – I just wanted to be friends with both sides."

Victim:
Negus
McClean

However, in transcripts of a Blackberry phone messenger conversation between Hamilton and an unidentified member of the GMG in February 2011, he is asked to "ride out" with the some GMG members.

The teenager told the court that "ride out" could mean anything, but Mr Denison argued Hamilton himself took the phrase to mean they would be out looking for rival gang members to stab.

"You answer that you could do a couple of 'little ride-outs' with this person," said the prosecution counsel.

"But then you add, 'Imagine we catch a couple of mans that I am cool with?' What happens to gang members you catch?"

"They get stabbed, beaten up, punched," replied Hamilton.

The 18-year-old denies murdering Negus McClean.

He stands accused of the murder alongside Bilal Lariba, 18, of Mayall Close, Enfield Lock, Tershan Dos Santos Edwards, 19, of St Albans in Hertfordshire, and a 16-year-old teenager, who cannot be named for legal reasons. They also deny murder.

The trial continues.

Negus was my friend, accused tells court

ONE of the four teenagers accused of murdering Negus McClean told a jury that the two of them were friends.

Giving evidence at the Old Bailey last Wednesday, Brandon Hamilton, 18, of Broadoak Avenue, Enfield Lock, said that Negus had helped him after he was attacked at a party in 2010.

Hamilton, who is accused of killing the 15-year-old in Westminster Road, Edmonton, on April 10 2011, said that in August 2010 he was at a house party in Enfield with Negus.

Hamilton, who denies murder, told the jury he was attacked by a love rival.

Hamilton said he left the party to go home – but then, because he was "upset", he returned to the party, where the same boy attacked him again, this time with a knife.

He added that because his T-shirt was covered in blood and his jumper was torn Negus gave him his jacket.

Prompted by defence barrister John Coffey QC, Hamilton told the court he had kept the jacket – and he answered "yeah", when asked if the item had been found in his bedroom when police searched it after he had been arrested.

Water great idea to cut pollution levels

Community groups trained to monitor waterways

By Grant Turnbull
news.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

COMMUNITY groups across Enfield are being given training to help reduce pollution in the borough's waterways.

Volunteers have been trained by charity Thames21 to monitor and test the condition of water in canals, rivers, ponds and lakes.

Throughout the borough, friends of parks groups and other will carry out tests on the water – and the council will then clean it up if necessary.

Jo-Ann Brown, 68, who organises volunteers for the Friends of Forty Hall and is a trained tester, said: "It's a great idea, we have direct links with the council – it's all working brilliantly."

The Friends of Forty Hall are taking an active interest in testing the waters so that animals and plants can thrive in the area.

Groups are able to test for phosphates and nitrates in the water as well as its acidity level.

Enfield Council's cabinet member for environment Chris Bond said: "We're working with friends groups across the borough to find out if our lakes and rivers are being polluted."

Enfield has more waterways than any other London borough, but many have been blighted by pollution.

Much of it comes from misconnected drains – usually from bathrooms or kitchens – which flush waste into nearby waterways rather than sewers.

The problem is thought to affect ten per cent of homes in Enfield.

A spokesman for Thames21, which trained the community volunteers, said the council should raise awareness of pollution in the borough.

Theo Thomas, the charity's senior programme manager, said: "People assume waste goes to the sewer. They don't know that their pipes are connected to the river.

"People in Enfield have a right to healthy rivers and the council needs to play a big part in that."

The charity says that water quality tests around the River Lea show the levels of faecal E. coli bacteria are regularly 40 times higher than recommended international standards.

Ex-MP Ryan in bid to make Labour shortlist

Seeking selection: Joan Ryan

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

LABOUR politicians determined to make their mark in Westminster are battling to be shortlisted for the swing seat of Enfield North.

The current MP, Conservative Nick de Bois, won the battleground seat in 2010 – but took it by a narrow majority of just 1,692.

The Labour Party has identified it as a seat which it can win back at the next general election.

And an all-women shortlist of potential candidates is currently being whittled down by branch members in the borough.

Although Joan Ryan held the seat for Labour from 1997 to 2010, campaign coordinator for Enfield North Chris Deacon said that she might face an uphill battle to stand at the next election.

"I think the membership feels that for us to win we need a fresh, new candidate to take the party forward," Mr Deacon told the Advertiser.

He revealed that the current front-runner in the race to be short-listed for consideration is 33-year-old Feryal Demirci, Hackney Councils cabinet member for neighbourhoods, who has secured nominations from the Enfield North Labour Party branches with the largest number of members.

Members of the Labour Party of Enfield North will vote for a candidate from a three-person shortlist chosen by a panel.

Ms Ryan told the Advertiser it was too early in the race to call anyone a front-runner as the selection for the long list of candidates has not been finalised.

"At this early stage I have one more nomination that the other candidates," she said.

"But nothing will be decided until this Thursday when the second half of the constituency will make their nominations on whom they want for the job."

Guiding light rewarded for 30 years of service

By Heather Saul

news.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

A LEADING light of the Girl Guides has been honoured with an award to recognise her three decades with the movement.

Pam Daniels was selected to receive the Laurel Award for her dedicated voluntary work running the 16th Enfield Brownie division, which meets at St George's Church Hall, in Hertford Road, Freezywater.

The prestigious award highlights outstanding services to Girl Guiding.

The 64-year-old was honoured during a surprise ceremony at the division's Northern Heights campsite in Elstree, Hertfordshire, on Saturday when 70 members gathered to watch Region Chief Commissioner Anne Hudson present the award.

Pam said: "I am greatly honoured by this award. Very few people get it, so it is a huge honour. It was a total surprise and we had a big party with the Brownies."

"I think the key to the job has been to encourage new people to become involved and ensuring the Guides and Brownies continues to grow."

"Girl Guiding has changed dramatically over the years. We provide a girl-only space for girls. We encourage them to get involved in everything and it is not competitive like it can be at school."

During her 30 years as a leader in Enfield, Pam has seen Girl Guiding values change significantly. Historically, Girl Guides undertook activities related to domestic duties.

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

Dedicated volunteer: Girl Guides leader Pam Daniels, front, received the Laurel Award from Enfield Division Commander Jacqueline Martyr

But Enfield Division Commissioner Jacqueline Martyr, who nominated Pam for the award, says that today girls are instead given practical activities and equipped with transferable skills that they can take into the workplace and throughout their adult lives.

She said: "Guiding now is much more outward facing. Girls are given adventurous activities to help them become self-reliant, capable in different areas and prepared for the world of work."

Over the last three decades, Pam has risen from being district commissioner for Enfield East to county commissioner across boroughs stretching from Enfield to Wembley in north-west London

Jacqueline added: "During that time, she has led a multitude of different activities, organised major events for all girls in those areas, contributed to regional events, supported the centenary celebrations and led international projects."

DO YOU SUFFER FROM IBS?

A SOLUTION to bloated feelings, bad skin, constipation and headaches could be a session of colon hydrotherapy.

Julia from Aqua di Aqua says colonic irrigation is one way of kick-starting your metabolism and clearing your body of toxins.

The clinic, in East Barnet Road, offers a private setting for the treatment, which has become more popular since the TV series The Only Way Is Essex.

Julia says: "It's more acceptable now than when Princess Diana was around. People don't feel they have to keep quiet about it now. Even Simon Cowell talks about having regular colonic in his recent autobiography."

The clinic has been providing the service for five years and says it has also become popular with men. They use the Libbe system, which allows clients privacy. One treatment clears a third of the bowel. The colon is 6ft long and holds roughly 15-20lbs of waste as well as toxins from coffee, alcohol, smoking as well as prescriptive drugs.

Also, some clients say their back aches and headaches are gone after the treatment. Clients can lie on their back, read a magazine or book or use their phone while having the treatment. The clinic suggests a series of three sessions to clear a client's system.

"A lot of people don't have bowel movement every day. This kick-starts the colon and sets the bowel to start working again," added Julia.

"Also clients say their back aches and headaches are gone by the time they come in for their second session."

Clients fill in a health check form before having treatments.

Council regeneration chief: Del Goddard

Council attacks proposal for free school

By Ruth McKee
ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

COUNCILLORS were left fuming last week after the managers of an academy trust announced plans to build a new school on land earmarked for a multi-million-pound regeneration project.

The Cuckoo Hall Academy Trust, which currently runs three free schools in the borough, announced that a site had been found for its new Heron Hall academy school in Ponders End – the site of the former Middlesex University campus in Queensway.

However, Enfield Council's cabinet member for business and regeneration Del Goddard says the site is at the heart of an £80million regeneration plan for Ponders End, which will see 408 new homes built in the area.

He said: "We believe the best use of this site is to provide good quality housing for residents, which helps with the redevelopment of the Alma Estate and enables the high street to be rebuilt and rejuvenated, providing many jobs for local people."

Mr Goddard added that as there was a new Oasis Academy in South Street, the council did not feel there was a need for another secondary school in Ponders End.

He said: "This development that the council is planning will provide jobs, boost the borough's economy and significantly improve Ponders End High Street."

"Placing a new school on this site could jeopardise this entire project, which has been developed over several years and which is fully supported by planning policy, and could mean the opportunity to transform the lives of thousands of people would be lost."

Phill Sowter, chairman of the Heron Hall secondary academy, defended last week's announcement.

"This land is already designated in planning terms for educational purposes," he said.

Mr Sowter thought that the academy could work with the borough in regenerating the area.

He told the Advertiser: "Currently there is a shortage of primary school places in both Enfield and London in general, therefore building more houses will only increase the demand."

"We will bring more than 200 new jobs into the area and will work with the local community to develop a thriving and economically sustainable neighbourhood."

"There have been concerns for some time about the lack of educational places in Edmonton and the council's own data makes it clear that with a shortage of primary places there will inevitably be a shortage of secondary places. This proposed joint project will help to address this need."

Temporary replacement for library

A TEMPORARY library stocked with 5,000 items has opened in Enfield Lock while the old Ordnance Road service is overhauled.

The building, at 65 Ordnance Road, is fully equipped with books, CDs and DVDs, computers, newspapers and periodicals.

Ordnance Road Library, in Hertford Road, closed on April 13, and is being demolished to make way for a new public centre housing a doctors' surgery, dentists and community hall as well as a library.

The temporary library will offer a range of facilities for children and adults of all ages until Ordnance Road Library re-opens next year.

Bambos Charalambous, Enfield Council's cabinet member for leisure and cultural services, said: "The temporary library is a light, airy and modern space offering most of the services that local people expect."

"In just two weeks, work has progressed smoothly with the installation of heating, toilets, phones, carpets and furniture, computers for public use and more than 5,000 items to borrow.

"At the library, adults, young people and children can enjoy a full range of activities."

"These range from story times and toy play times for the very young, to projects, fun games and the Work Club sessions on Mondays between 9am and 1pm."

The temporary library is open on Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays between 9am and 8pm, on Fridays from 9am to 5.30pm and on Saturdays from 9am to 5pm.

It will be closed on Sundays and Wednesdays.

Delight for youngsters at school's expansion

By Jacob Mignano

news.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

STAFF and students are celebrating the official opening of a £2.46million extension at Russet House, a special school for children with autism.

The new building was funded by Enfield Council with additional contributions from the school, in Autumn Close, Enfield.

It will help the very youngest children whose needs cannot be met in mainstream schools.

The extension includes a new kitchen and dining area, an ICT room, a hall and a state-of-the-art sensory room.

It was officially opened last week. Headteacher Julie Foster praised the impact the new facilities have had on both teaching and learning at the school.

"We are all delighted," she said. "The extension has made a huge difference to our teaching and our children's enthusiasm," she said.

The specially designed ICT room allows children to use computers as part of their everyday learning.

But the most impressive feature of the extension is almost certainly the interactive sensory room.

"This is a remarkable feature that helps our children explore their senses," added Ms Foster.

"It operates through gestures and movement made by the children."

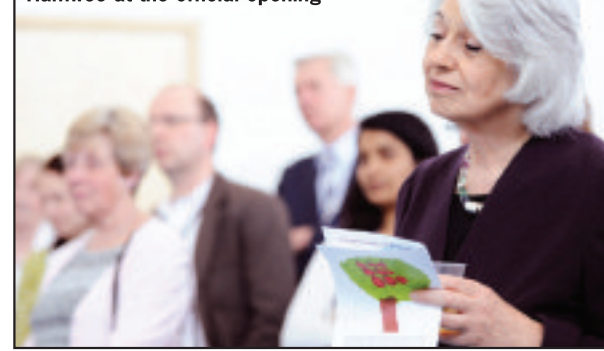

"Using light, images and sound, children can find themselves anywhere that their imaginations take them."

"It is pure magic – an absolutely positive place that can become a place of calm and beauty or excitement and adventure."

"This is a pioneering approach to the learning and teaching at Russet House, enabling all the children to expand their senses and discover new ideas."

Ayfer Orhan, cabinet member for children and young people, added: "This new building will help us meet the demand for more school places and it is designed to help the children with such special needs enjoy learning."

Charitable cousins take plunge and raise £4,000 for hospice on skydive

By Jacob Mignano

news.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

A WOMAN conquered her fears to complete a skydive and raise thousands of pounds for the hospice which cared for her father before he died last year.

Adriana Picone, 25, of Larmans Road, Enfield, was accompanied by her cousin Laura Rubina, 29, on the skydive and together they raised a whopping £4,000 for the North London Hospice.

Staff at the hospice cared for Adriana's father Salvatore Picone, who died of stomach cancer in August last year at the age of 54.

Adriana admitted to having nerves the day before the jump, which took place in Brackley, Northamptonshire – but once they were 12,000 feet in the air, “you just have to go for it,” she said.

Thinking of her father gave Adriana the courage to complete the jump.

“Up there, nerves disappear because you know you’re doing it for the right reasons,” she said.

“My dad meant everything to me. Whatever relationship you had to him, he was always someone who everybody looked up to.”

The cousins began raising money for the skydive at the beginning of March and far exceeded the required minimum sponsorship of £395.

“I think the hospice said they were overwhelmed by the amount we raised,” Adriana told the Advertiser.

She praised the “fantastic” generosity of those who have contributed, including staff and customers at her workplace, Howdens Joinery in Chingford, as well as local newsagents.

Adriana added: “The jump was the perfect opportunity to do something we’ve always wanted to do.

“We wanted to do it for North London Hospice because it was something close to our heart, close to home. They are amazing.”

The family is planning to continue raising money for the charity.

Pub footballers make a majestic gesture in aid of Help for Heroes

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

A SUNDAY league football team will be playing a charity cup match as part of a fundraising effort for British soldiers injured in action.

Majestic FC, made up of friends and relatives who are all regulars at the Red Lion pub, in Hertford Road, Enfield, will be playing Harrow Police FC in the match aimed at raising money for Help for Heroes.

The military charity supports British servicemen and women who have suffered life-changing injuries and illnesses during their time on the frontline.

The match will take place at the Goldsdown Road ground in Brimsdown on Friday and kick off at 7.45pm Jamie Nicholls, 28, of The Ridgeway, Enfield, is one of Majestic's players.

He served in Iraq in 2003 and from 2006 to 2007, and in Afghanistan in 2009.

Jamie told the Advertiser: "When we started the team we all agreed that we wanted to raise money for a cause and we chose Help for Heroes because of all the amazing work they do.

"I was in the Army and a lot of my friends and family are as well. It is a good feeling to be able to give something back.

"I have met servicemen and servicewomen who have sustained life-changing injuries and Help for Heroes is there as a charity to look after the recovery and welfare of those injured.

"We have been fundraising all season. We have already raised more than £1,000 and we've still got the football game to go.

"We have gone a bit official as well – a cup will be presented to the winning team by a police officer in full uniform and by a friend of one of our players who was shot in the shoulder while serving in Afghanistan."

Majestic FC, who play in Help for Heroes jerseys, were formed by a group of friends and relatives last May, with the aim of raising money for the charity while keeping fit.

Brimsdown Sports and Social Club is allowing Majestic to use the ground free of charge.

The minimum donation for entry to Friday's game is £3 for adults and £1 for under-12s.

People can make donations online at www.bmycharity.com/majesticfc

Divorce does not to have to break the bank

Introducing Marion Foley, whose legal career has come full circle since she qualified in 1997. Marion grew up in North London and her first job was in Enfield. Having spent the past twelve years as a solicitor and partner at an established practice in Barnet, Marion returned to Enfield Town in May 2013 when she joined Vanderpump and Sykes.

In my sixteen years specialising as a family lawyer I have found that when a relationship falls apart most clients want a speedy and cost effective resolution. How successfully this can be achieved depends on a couple's genuine desire to settle and the quality of their lawyers.

For couples trying to settle, it is essential to put aside angry and hurt feelings so that you can absorb and process the advice of your lawyer. In my experience, cases that are prolonged and cost more either involve couples who cannot park their emotions OR because the lawyer does not take a pragmatic settlement approach.

I have represented people from all walks of life. My cases have ranged from financially complex divorces involving company structures, partnerships, trusts and overseas assets to the more straightforward break up. Most break ups involve a modest amount of property, capital and income. An experienced lawyer will be looking to settle your case as early as possible. Information gathering can be quick if couples co-operate and once gathered negotiations can begin. Sometimes, going to court is unavoidable. However, for the experience lawyer it is always the last resort even in the most complex of cases.

My years of practice have not dampened my commitment to and enthusiasm for family law. It remains immensely rewarding to help someone come through a very difficult and painful period in their life. I take great satisfaction knowing that I have played an important part in achieving an outcome that a client can be happy with.

The journey to settlement can be a long one. Many clients are crushed when they first come to see me. Rarely am I believed when I say that time really does heal. It is fulfilling to watch a client recover from the loss of a relationship, to leave the legal process in a much happier state than when they first entered it and to know that I played in that part.

Further advice on any area of family law, contact our Family Law team on: 020 8370 2898 or by e-mailing markheselton@vanderpumps.co.uk.

We offer a fixed fee of £75.00 plus VAT, for first appointments.

We open until 8pm Wednesday evening, by appointment only.

Disabled athletes in medals

By Jacob Mignano

news.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

A RECORD number of more than 150 athletes took part in the London Disability Championships at Lee Valley Athletics Centre last week.

The biggest turnout in the history of the competition saw disabled athletes from across London, Essex and Hertfordshire aged ten and over competing at the venue in Meridian Way, Edmonton, on Monday.

The competition was organised by Lee Valley's disability lead officer Yvonne Jacobs, who has almost 25 years' experience in the sport and specialises in coaching athletes with disabilities

She said: "This event gives everyone the opportunity to take part.

"It is a proper athletics competition for people with disabilities, under all of the UK Athletics rules.

"We treat competitors just the same as any other athlete would be treated."

Yvonne praised the success of the event and said that everyone seemed to have had a good time.

Among the athletes taking part were Dalian Richmond, who has represented England's MENCAP athletics team, and Scott Harvey, of Barnet and Southgate College, who won three gold medals. They came on top of the two silver medals he claimed at last year's National Junior Disability Athletics Championships.

Yvonne said that the 2012 Paralympic Games in London had raised the profile of disability sports.

"But we are always looking for people to volunteer in any way in order to cope with the massive workload of putting on events such as the London Disability Championships," she added.

Yvonne is hoping that businesses and organisations will help to support and sponsor events.

Any money raised goes towards helping to send youngsters to this year's National Junior Disability Athletics Championships, which are taking place in Preston, Lancashire, in July.

Anyone who is keen to get involve is encouraged to email london.disability.athletics@gmail.com

Success: Some of the athletes show off their medals

Andy Love MP

A view from Westminster

Let's get back to work

MORE than a thousand 18 to 24-year-olds in Edmonton are unemployed and the number of those without a job for more than a year has risen to 1,455.

Long-term unemployment is corrosive to society, corrosive to family life and extremely bad for anyone's well-being.

Apart from the obvious problem of having no money to pay for essentials such as food and rent, being without a job can also lead to mental and physical health problems, as stress, depression and anxiety play their part.

That's why I think tackling the high rate of unemployment across the UK, as well as in Enfield, should be the government's number one priority.

A strong economy begets more employment as small and mid-size businesses set up shop and take on new workers to supply demand.

We have a strong history of employment – especially manufacturing employment – in Edmonton, and the key to a lot of our historic jobs was having a skilled workforce right on our doorstep.

Of course, one of the other downsides of long-term unemployment is the rapid de-skilling that comes with it.

People leave school, or lose their jobs, and become stuck in a vicious circle of looking for jobs but having no opportunity to learn the skills that will attract potential employers in the first place.

That is why I would like to see more local businesses and organisations in Enfield being proactive and offering our young people the opportunity to learn new skills and become the apprentices we need to kick-start the economy.

With big employers including Enfield Council, the NHS and Coca-Cola based in the borough, there is a lot of scope to do much more to give people a chance at starting in rewarding careers.

Monty Meth

Life president – Enfield Over-50s Forum

Dealing with the age gap

THERE are 84,000 people aged over 50 living in Enfield, but how many ever get the chance to sit down and have a face-to-face chat with young people about their future in this topsy-turvy world?

The last time I did it was some 45 years ago when I was helping a boys' club in Bethnal Green. That was until I sat round a table with some youngsters at an Enfield Council-run intergenerational conference aimed at getting a dialogue going between young and old.

We oldies tend to brand all youngsters as noisy, aggressive, disrespectful, who just enjoy pushing granny off a bus. They may think of us as greedy, selfish and having left them a mountain to climb – and they would be right.

London youngsters enter a world in which 25 per cent of 16 to 24-year-olds are out of work – and in England 979,000 in that age group are jobless. They face a world in which rents in London have risen eight times faster than wages and the average age of new homeowners is 45. And they're told that to get a pension of £25,000 a year, they will have to save £763,900 by the time they are 65.

So can you blame them for being envious of the good fortune enjoyed by some, but by no means all older people? And are those politicians calling for cuts in benefits to "wealthy pensioners" creating a conflict between young and old in their bid for votes?

We've challenged them to define wealthy when there are only 250,000 higher-rate taxpayers out of 11 million pensioners – 6.5m are too poor to pay tax. Cutting benefits would raise peanuts compared with the £120.6bn the government is borrowing this year.

For more than 105 years, each generation of working people has paid for the pensions and healthcare of retired and elderly people. It has helped to bind the generations together. Don't let them split us now.

Yoga expert leads day of fitness for supermarket staff

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A YOGA teacher from Enfield will be helping supermarket staff stretch and soothe their aches away this morning.

Cathy Underwood is taking part in a taster day of exercise and healthy living that staff at Asda, in Southbury Road, Enfield, are being treated to by their managers.

The Yoga4mums founder and healthy living guru hopes that the workshop will lead to a permanent class for staff in the store.

Speaking ahead of the day of fitness that includes introductions to zumba and circuit training as well as yoga, Cathy told the Advertiser that helping employees to get fit and active makes perfect business sense.

She believes that helping employees who suffer from ailments including back pain and stress saves employers a fortune in sick leave.

"I did some research last year and muscular skeletal pain and stress-related injury is one of the biggest causes of employee absence in the workplace," said Cathy.

"It is a shame that at the minute not enough employers take this on board."

Cathy is a passionate believer in getting the borough active – and after figures published last year revealed high levels of childhood obesity in Enfield, she believes that getting parents to exercise is crucial for young people to get access to healthier lifestyle choices.

"It all starts at home," she added. "If you have got mums and dads coming home from work saying that they have just come from a yoga class, they are more likely to think that that is the norm and to adopt those healthy habits themselves."

St Jude's Proms back to celebrate 21st birthday

By Jacob Mignano
news.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

THE Proms at St Jude's music and literary festival is returning next month for its 21st year.

Tickets for the nine-day festival, which will be held from June 22 to 30 at the church of Saint Jude-on-the-Hill and The Henrietta Barnett School, in Hampstead Garden Suburb, are now on sale.

The music festival will, as always, feature live concerts and recitals from leading performers, while the LitFest will see best-selling authors talking about their work.

Choir and period instrument orchestra The Sixteen, who have been heard regularly on the BBC, are among those appearing.

At the free opening midday concert the Pandemonium Drummers will be reviving their performance from the Olympic opening ceremony alongside a choir of volunteer Games Makers from London 2012.

Other guests over the course of the festival include bass-baritone Sir Willard White and violin virtuoso Charlie Siem.

Kate Atkinson, who was on the shortlist for the Women's Prize for Fiction in 2013, will provide one of the highlights of the LitFest, which will be taking place on the weekend of June 22 and 23 at The Henrietta Barnett School.

Renowned scientist, writer and broadcaster Baroness Susan Greenfield, whose first novel 2121: The Story For The 22nd Century is to be published this summer, will be interviewed by The Guardian's science editor Alok Jah.

The festival will also feature a licensed refreshment marquee and a LitFest café, which will be serving home-made cakes.

"We have a programme to suit all tastes, including free lunchtime recitals and concerts for kids," said Proms spokesman Ron Finlay.

The festival will be raising money for Toynbee Hall, which helps socially excluded young people, as well as the North London Hospice, which cares for people with life-limited illnesses.

Last year the festival donated £50,000 to these worthy causes.

Almost everybody involved with the festival is a volunteer and the event relies on sponsorship and friends for its success.

To become a friend of the festival and gain a range of benefits, or to buy tickets, visit www.promsatstjudes.org.uk

Telephone booking will open on June 5. Call 020 3322 8123.

Authentic feel to foster story

ALL I've Known is a beautifully acted, intimate play, which is now showing at Upstairs in the Studio Theatre at Chickenshed.

Harry is a man who has sought out his foster family, decades after disappearing.

The play starts with the surprise Harry springs on his foster mother as she is hanging out the washing.

And as the conversation between the two unfolds the play looks back at what the family went through – the problems they were able to overcome and those they failed to resolve

This is a personal play, written by Chickenshed's Rachel Yates, whose parents fostered children when she was young.

Before writing All I've Known, she conducted interviews with people who have experience of the care system.

Those recorded interviews are played periodically throughout the play and it is this, as well as the natural performances of a small and talented cast, that gives it a wonderful authenticity.

Liz Kitchen, as mother, is at the heart of the play and ensures that despite its bleaker moments the story remains warm and touching.

She has a wonderful chemistry with Michael Oftei, who plays the conflicted Harry.

For those not familiar with fostering there are many enlightening moments – well worth catching before the run ends on May 18.

To book, call the box office on 020 8292 9222.

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Former deputy editor Renee was trailblazer in journalism

By Mary McConnell

mary.mcconnell@nlhnews.co.uk

Trailblazer: Renee Oldfield became a journalist at a time when women usually took on administrative roles

A FORMER deputy editor of the Enfield Gazette, Renee Oldfield, has died at the age of 87 after a short illness.

Born Renee Lightley in Wath-Upon-Dearne, south Yorkshire, she started her career in journalism during World War II, when she gathered family tributes to loved ones who had been killed in action.

According to her son Simon, Renee blazed a trail for women in journalism at a time when they were expected to stick to administrative roles.

"It wasn't that usual for women to have a reporting role in newspapers," he said.

"The vast majority of reporters were men and some of her friends tried to dissuade her from becoming a journalist because they didn't think it was a suitable job for a woman"

After working in south Yorkshire, Renee joined the staff of the then Palmer's Green and Southgate Gazette as a senior reporter at the paper's former offices in Aldermans Hill, Palmers Green, in the 1960s.

Working under the editorship of the late John Ginn, she quickly gained a reputation for accurate, impartial but colourful and lively journalism.

As a senior member of staff, Renee relished her active role in nurturing the talents of new recruits to the newsroom, helping many to successful careers on national newspapers, as well as in radio and television.

After Bert Huggins became editor of the Palmer's Green and Southgate Gazette, Renee was appointed assistant editor.

The two forged a strong professional partnership which continued when Bert was appointed editor of the Enfield Gazette and Renee moved with him as deputy editor.

According to Simon, she was ahead of her time in many ways.

"She was very aware of the importance of sensitivity when it came to cultural differences," he said.

"She always taught new reporters never to ask for someone's Christian name – always to say first name because you could be talking to a Jew or a Muslim."

"That was very advanced thinking in those days."

Renee's upbringing as the daughter of a miner during the depression of the late 1920s and 1930s led to a lifelong association with trade unions.

She served as treasurer for the National Union of Journalists' north London branch for a number of years.

Renee's husband Irving died in 2009.

A much loved mother, grandmother and great-grandmother, Renee is survived by her brother Dr Dennis Lightley, daughter Karen, son Simon, who lives in Palmers Green, four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

She died peacefully in her sleep on April 19 at the Coopers Croft Care Home in Potters Bar.

Those attending Renee's funeral, which took place last Wednesday at New Southgate Crematorium, in Brunswick Park Road, were invited to type out their tributes on her 1960 Adler typewriter from the Gazette newsroom.

Highly Recommended!
But don't just take their word for it.

Thank you Andrew,

This is to thank you for completing the sale of my house. Following the introduction of about 14 potential buyers, who kept me busy for a few weeks and eventually led me to a sale at the asking price! I take this opportunity to express my warm appreciation for the professional, but friendly, manner with which you and your staff handled the matter to a successful conclusion.

I chose your company to sell my house because I had used you in 2001 when you sold my previous home and there were difficulties. As I recall you emailed the purchaser's solicitors at a very late stage in the proceedings to clear the log-jam!

I have had (and have) no hesitation in recommending your company to my friends.

With my best wishes.

Charles

Property tips

A common question asked by landlords is, "Should I rent my property furnished or unfurnished?"

As neither will achieve you more of a rental figure, we at Peter Barry would advise all landlords to not spend any unnecessary money until you have found a suitable tenant. The last thing you would want to do is buy all furniture to find an excellent tenant who already has everything.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

- (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
- (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
- (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

- (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
- (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
- (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

SPURS FACING KEY CHELSEA CONTEST

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

ANDRE VILLAS-BOAS admits that Tottenham Hotspur will need to produce an improved performance if they are to get a positive result in tonight's crucial Premier League clash at Chelsea.

Although Spurs secured a 1-0 win at home to Southampton on Saturday, they were well below their best and needed yet another spectacular late goal from double footballer of the year Gareth Bale to secure maximum points.

The win keeps Tottenham in fifth place, two points adrift of Arsenal – who have played a game more – and three behind Chelsea. Both of their London rivals have vastly superior goal differences and, with just two matches left after tonight, head coach Villas-Boas acknowledges the size of the task they face.

"The Southampton match was probably not about the performance," Villas-Boas said. "It was about getting the result. It was not the 'Spurs way' but it keeps us in the frame, and hopefully we will improve and play better against Chelsea. It's a big, big game.

"It will be extremely difficult, but if we achieve these nine points then we will be enjoying Champions League football next season.

"That is our aim, but we understand that other teams are improving and it will probably go down to the wire. The three points gives us a wonderful opportunity against a team that are fighting for the same objectives as us."

Tonight's match will see Villas-Boas returning to Stamford Bridge for the first time since being axed as Chelsea manager last season, and he admits that he has altered his approach since his ill-fated spell with the Blues.

"The experiences are different and I learned a great lesson last year," he said. "There are things I do dramatically different and things that I do exactly the same because you still have to stay true to your principles.

"The Chelsea experience allowed me to see things in a different way and helped me address the mistakes I made – that always allows you to develop on a personal and a professional level."

Meanwhile, Bale has added the Football Writers' Footballer of the Year award to his double PFA triumph the week before.

Bale, who has become the first Tottenham player since Jurgen Klinsmann to score 20 league goals in a season, saw off stiff competition from Manchester United's Robin van Persie to claim the award on Thursday.

"It's a huge honour to receive the Footballer of the Year award from the Football Writers' Association," he said. "It means a lot when you consider the number of players who have been outstanding for their clubs in the Premier League this season.

"I have been very fortunate to be playing in such a fantastic team and I owe a lot to my team-mates, and obviously the manager – who has shown great faith in me.

"This award has been won in the past by some of the greatest names in football, and I consider it a privilege that the FWA has selected me to be named alongside them."

Crunch time: Andre Villas-Boas is looking for Spurs to produce an improved display against Chelsea

Skolars record first league win of the season

THE London Skolars finally broke their duck in this season's Kingstone Press Championship One as they overcame a half-time deficit to beat South Wales Scorpions 39-20 at the New River Stadium on Sunday and climb off the foot of the table.

Despite their encouraging cup form, the Skolars had suffered heavy defeats in their opening two league matches – and they again got off to a poor start as Dalton Grant scored the opening try for the Scorpions after just two minutes.

The hosts hit back and took the lead five minutes later through an Andy McLean try, which Dylan Skee converted, but their advantage was shortlived as Grant and Hayden Peacock crossed the line in quick succession – with Jack Murphy adding a conversion to leave the Scorpions in control.

The Skolars had been far from convincing up until that stage, but a break started by Skee was finished off by James Anthony and Skee's successful conversion left them trailing by just two points at the interval.

The second period saw the hosts dominate from the start and Mike Worrincy showed his pace to score from 20 yards out before the Skolars were rewarded for running a penalty close to the line as Skee slipped through the defence to touch down. Skee converted both tries and then kicked a penalty on the hour to put the Skolars 12 points ahead.

The Scorpions responded well and they had two tries disallowed before Peacock touched down for a second time to give them hope with 13 minutes remaining.

However, Alex Hurst cancelled this out by scoring a try soon after and Andy McLean's drop-goal – only the 12th by the Skolars in 11 seasons at professional level – extended their advantage.

With the bonus point drifting away from them, the visitors tried to win the ball back from the restart, but the attempt backfired and Worrincy touched down for his second try late on, with Skee adding the conversion to end with a personal haul of 18 points.

The London Skolars go to Rochdale Hornets on Sunday (3pm).

A good start for young athletes

THE young athletes from Enfield and Haringey Athletic Club performed well to finish second in their opening meeting of the season in the United Kingdom under-13 and under-15 Development League on Sunday.

Enfield and Haringey have been placed in South Premier Division One of the newly formed league, part of this season's revamp in the structure of junior athletics, and they came close to making the perfect start in Bromley as they missed out on top spot to Reading by just six points.

Amber Hornbuckle shone in the girls' under-13 events as she won both the 75metres (10.40seconds) and the 70m hurdles (11.5secs) and also formed part of the victorious 4x100m relay squad.

Kyle Brown won the boys' under-13

75m hurdles (13.50secs) and Luke Bluemink the boys' under-13 long jump (4.31m), while there were wins in the girls' under-15 events from Emma Martin in the pole vault (2.60m) and Anna-Maria Boahene in the shot (9.29m).

Luke Leon in the 300m (38.40secs), George Conner in the 800m (2minutes 6.20secs), the 4x100m relay squad (54.70secs), Ben Stoker in the pole vault (2.50m) and Sean Bazanye-Lutu in the high jump (1.60m) all claimed victories for the under-15 boys.

The senior men's team at Enfield and Haringey AC will begin their campaign in the Premier Division of the British Athletics League when they host the opening meeting of the season at the Lee Valley Athletics Centre on Saturday.
